TO OVERTHROW THE MONARCHY.

Spanish Republicans Take Advantage of the Despatch of Troops to Cuba.

MADRID, Aug. 17.—From present indications it looks as though advantage was being taken of the despatch of large bodies of troops to Cuba to inaugurate an active movement looking to the overthrow of the monarchy and the establishment of a republic. There has been a concerted rising of republican bands in two provinces north of Valencia, and the government is taking active measures to quell the rising in its incipency.

A number of republicans made an attack upon the small town of Chovar, in the province of Castellon de la Plana, taking the townsmen and civil guards by surprise. The mayor was captured and imprisoned, and for a time the place was entirely at the mercy of the attacking party, which seized all the arms in the town and also all the money which could be found.

The authorities asked for assistance from Segorbe, and a detachment of gendarmes was hurried to Chovar from that city. Meanwhile the republican bands had fled to the open country, and when the gendarmes arrived at Chovar they were despatched in pursuit of them, under orders to shoot them on sight.

Gandia, a town of Valencia, forty miles from the capital of the province, was also the scene of a republican demonstration. Several bands collected there from the surrounding country and opened fire on a republic. They then cut the telegraph and telephone wires, and their subsequent actions are unknown.

A band at Denia, in the province of Alicante, attempted to make a demonstration, but the local authorities dispersed them. Several arrests were made.

CATCHING AT STRAWS.

Cup Committee's Secrecy Concerning
the Defender's Measurements.

LONDON, Aug. 17.—The Field, in an article on the coming America's cup contest, says that the latest information received from New York concerning the Defender appears to show that the New York Yacht Club committee is catching at straws in the hope of continuing to hold the America's cup. The article cites as an instance of these tactics on the part of the committee the keeping as a secret the measurements of the new yacht, and contents that thereby is ill-founded, as nothing can now be done to alter her before the contest takes place.

LONDON, Aug. 17.—In a letter to the author of a book dealing with the relations be-need it, and is able now as it never was to hold its own ground.

PREPARING FOR THE LABOR DAY CELE-BRATION.

The committee on the Labor day celebration has asked for proposals for the ground privileges for the day, the field operations of which will again be held on the polo grounds.
Notice is also given that those authorized to act for the committee have proper credentials, which they should show to all with whom they do business. This has been deemed necessary, owing to the fact that at such a time people in no way connected with the management are likely to deceive citizens, causing trouble for the organizations that are connected with the celebration.

This Morning's News.

MAY BE RE-APPOINTED.

Matt Ransom Is Not Now the Minister to Mexico.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 17.—The office of minister from the United States to Mexico was practically declared vacant yesterday by a decision rendered by Holmes Conrad, solicitor general of the United States, and acting attorney general.

Mr. Ransom's incumbency was declared to be contrary to the federal constitution, and the acting attorney general sustained the action of Thomas Holcomb, auditor of the treasury, for the state department, in declining to pass favorably upon Mr. Ransom's vouchers for salary and expenses.

The decision of the acting attorney general was based on a question raised by Auditor Holcomb as to the legality of Mr. Ransom's appointment to the Mexican mission, in view of sec. 2, art. 6 of the constitution, which declares that "no senator or representative shall, during the time for which he has been elected, be appointed to any civil office under the authority of the United States, which have been created or the emoluments whereof shall have been increased during such time."

Where the Hitch Comes.

Mr. Ransom was nominated by President Cleveland in February last, and was confirmed by the senate before his term of office as senator from North Carolina had expired. He was a member of the senate when the diplomatic and consular appointment bill was passed which contained a provision relating the post of minister to Mexico from a mission of the second class to a mission of the first class, and increasing the salary of the office from $12,500 to $17,500 a year.

The constitutional provision through which Mr. Ransom has been deprived of office does not bar him from being reappointed to the Mexican mission. He could have been appointed without violation of the law or constitution at any time after the hour of noon on March 4 last, when his senatorial term expired.

It is believed that President Cleveland will reappoint Mr. Ransom to the office. Nearly every senator united last winter in asking the president to appoint Mr. Ransom.

Church and State.

CITY OF MEXICO, Aug. 17.—El Diario de Hogar asserts that the clerical party is continually gaining ground, and that in Rome they dream of sending a papal nuncio here, practically abrogating the reform laws directed against clergy. Diario de Hogar warns the liberals to be on their guard against the schemes of the Vatican for annulling all that has been gained in past struggles against ecclesiastical despotism.

Mine Didn't Pay.

HONOLULU, Mich., Aug. 17.—Foreclosure proceedings have been begun against the Centennial Mining company, and the property will be sold Sept. 25 to pay the indebtedness, amounting to $135,000. The mine has sunk $1,000,000, and as the stock is non-assignable, the holders, probably, cannot save property.

In Favor of Metric Plan.

LONDON, Aug. 17.—The parliamentary committee having the matter under consideration have reported in favor of the adoption of the metric system of weights and measures, together with a recommendation that the use of the system should be made compulsory by two years hence.

A Crazy Man's Freak.

NEWTON, N. Y., Aug. 17.—Wesley Washburn became violently insane at a funeral at the Methodist church here yesterday, and rushing on to the platform seized Presiding Elder Gydenwise and attempted to stop his speaking. Washburn was removed to his home.

GREENFIELD, Pa., Aug. 17.—Eight men were killed and seriously hurt last night by the premature explosion of a blast near Mahaffy, on the Pittsburgh and Eastern railway.

BOSTONS' BAD BREAKS

Give Them Another Push Toward the Foot of the League List.

PHILADELPHIA, Aug. 16.—The Philadelphia team beat the Boston by a score of 9 to 7, and the two teams are tied for sixth place in the pennant race. Carney and Nichols pitched with about equal effect, but the Philadelphia team received much the better support. Errors by Nash, Nichols and Tucker cost Boston three runs and probably the game, for Nichols, as usual, kept the Phillies guessing when hits came. Nash's errors were most damaging.

WEEKLY TRADE REVIEW.

Shows Business to Be Doing as Well as Can Be Expected.

NEW YORK, Aug. 17.—R. G. Dunn & Co., in their weekly review of trade, say: "It is a belated season; a freezing may set every-thing back. The heavy business which ought to have been done in May and June was pushed into July, so that the mid-summer decline due in July comes in August. With this in mind, one is not surprised to find the shrinkage from July to August more conspicuous than usual."

The disappointing crop reports of last Saturday, though evidently distrusted, lessen confidence in regard to the future of the trade, even while some speculators gain by them.

Lack of all doubts is the fact that industries are doing better than anybody could have expected.

Textile imports have been very heavy, and advances in cotton goods to some extent check buying, while Fall River (Mass.) spinners are organizing for the restoration of wages paid before the panic. Woolen manufacturers find in their way large sales of foreign goods at prices which cause official investigation.

Corn reports modified the expectations as to cotton and wheat, and cotton speculators have bought, lifting the price 8 cent, while wheat, with more evidence of loss in yield, has declined 1 1/2 cents.

Failures for the week have been 106 in the United States, against 229 last year, and 28 in Canada, against 45 last year.

Clinging to Fatherland.

CLEVELAND, Aug. 17.—The annual convention of the National Baden Aid society began in this city yesterday. The main objects of the society are to perfect the German tongue and perpetuate the customs of the fatherland among Germans in America.

From Texas to New York.

NEW YORK, Aug. 17.—Eight federal prisoners, sentenced for crimes against the laws of the United States, within the jurisdiction of the district court at San Antonio, Tex., have arrived at Crow Hill penitentiary.

Kensington's Fast Trip.

PHILADELPHIA, Aug. 17.—Steamer Kensington broke the record between Queens-town and the Delaware Breakwater. The run was made in 8 days and 8 hours, the best previous record being 8 days and 8 hours.

Pennsylvania's Parsimony.

PHILADELPHIA, Aug. 17.—The Boston Towboat company, operating a large fleet of coal barges between here and New England ports, has announced its intention of dropping out of the Philadelphia trade. The failure of the state government to make an appropriation to aid in the work of deepening the ship canal between here and the sea is said to be responsible for the move. The Morse line of barges is also considering the advisability of giving up the Philadelphia trade.

On Lines of Peace.

BRUSSELS, Aug. 17.—The international parliamentary conference on peace arbitration adopted a resolution declaring that when a state has proclaimed permanent neutrality such neutrality should be recognized by the powers. The conference also adopted a resolution to ascertain whether two or more governments were prepared to take the initiative in the establishment of an international court for the settlement of disputes by pacific methods.

Regretted His Marriage.

NEW YORK, Aug. 17.—A man who is said to be connected to one of the royal families of Luxembourg, Ger., and to the heir to vast estates there—Arnold Weckstein—was arrested last night. Weckstein incurred the anger of his parents by eloping with his wife to this country. Disinherited, he yesterday started to kill the woman, whom he blamed for his ill-fortunes.

REASONABLE NOTES.

The trumpet flower is at its best now, and it is a delight to have a noble vine of Tecoma radicans climbing on a friendly pole to the balcony, and holding out the scarlet clusters of long-throated bells as if knowing where a lover dwelt. The trumpet flower's lovers prove many, however. Looking at it for a few minutes it is found to be receiving guests by the hundreds. There is a cheerful buzz all about the vine-wreathed pole, and gnats, hornets, common house-flies and bees are coming and going from one cluster of blossoms to another. Some of the insects walk about the buds and the outside of the blossoms, seeming to find an agreeable nectar there, but the bees pass straight down the tubes exactly as if it were left at the hive doors just where the tea-table was set this fine afternoon. The prettiest of the bees are the Italians, loaded with yellow around the black bodies, all in the Pope's colors. They are particularly effective traveling in and out the red doors.

The humming bird is the most distinguished of the trumpet flower's visitors. There is not an hour of a pleasant day when he does not call, tame and saucy little spirit, perfectly indifferent to the observer as long as a hand is not lifted toward him. It would be easy to close him in one of the trumpets when he has hummed himself fearlessly down its throat, but this might cause bad feeling in the future, so we let him back out in peace, and when he comes back with a bit of a branch where he sits and preens himself and pipes "Can, can?" Of course he can, for his only enemy is the creature who would wear him on her hat, and she is getting beautifully lost. The trumpet flower would be attractive enough in itself, but the fact of its being a haunt for the humming bird doubles its value and makes it one of our most desirable vines.

There is much said now about the Japanese morning glories, which are described as widely varying in foliage and blossom from the flower of that name common to us. The leaves of some are deeply cut, and the foliage green and white. The flowers of others are banded with color and star-shaped. But all this reads like the Japanese "that we have now if we grow them. They are so beautiful that an attempt to make them fashionable as something new from far away may be forgiven if successful. The common morning glory is an impostor, though for some reason unknown it is always made to figure in seed-catalogues as Convolvulus Major, which it is not.

There is something pathetic in the thought of the women of Iceland calling for help toward a higher education than is afforded them. For the boys there is an excellent Latin school in Iceland, but for the girls learning stops short when they have done little more than begin. A high school has been built through the efforts of a countrywoman who has had advantages in other lands, and is full of sympathy for her sisters at home. But it will take money to run this, and to get it Madame Magnusson has gathered her people's hitherto cherished heirlooms in silver and gold of curious and beautiful workmanship, and means to turn them into knowledge that will fit the Iceland women to become the wives and mothers again of such men as were sent skimming about the world to do them honor and give evidence of that high civilization that was theirs in the past.

A strange land is Iceland, where fire may come at any moment and bury the gardens and fields under ashes so deep that the arable earth is lost for years, or where ice may float in from colder regions still, and wall up the shores, making winter of the sunniest months.

A strange land, where thrift and economy and piety and honesty are the leading characteristics to such an extent that the result is almost as of a little Heaven in the midst of Hades!

A strange land, where when flour falls the people live on sea-moss, and when grass fails the cattle keep plump and cheerful on crushed fish-bones, where the language has remained unaltered while all other European languages have been changed, where the poems of a thousand years back are as alive as with us are the songs of Longfellow or Tennyson, and where the stories of the forefathers who sailed away to Narragansett Bay—otherwise Vinland—five hundred years before Columbus knelt on the shores of the new world, are as modern history.

Madame Magnusson is here in Newport with this wealth of old art work, which should find a place in one of our great museums, and likewise a wealth of information about her native country, and it is hoped before she leaves that there will be an opportunity for Newporters to see and hear what she can show and tell them.

Some thousand years ago Iceland's mariners knew all seas, and they sailed into this, found our island, and gave it its first civilized name. Perchance they built that stone structure on Touro Park.

"Which in this very hour stands looking seaward." But certainly there is a link between us that should be strengthened by our interest, and it would be a graceful act if the help the Iceland women and children are asking could be sent from these Vinland shores.

"THE WIDOW JONES."

"The Widow Jones," which is to be presented at the Opera House next Thursday evening, is the latest farce-comedy written by John J. McNally, author of "A Country Sport," "A Straight Tip," and other efforts of like nature. The new piece is said to be funnier than any of Mr. McNally's previous attempts, and that is saying a great deal.

"The Widow Jones" will introduce as a star May Irwin, a prime favorite who long since won her way into the affections of lovers of farce-comedy. In her line of work she is inimitable. Her singing and dancing are thoroughly captivating, and she has humor enough, and to spare, for half a dozen comedies. As the author of "The Widow Jones" has written a star role for Miss Irwin, which is expected to meet all her requirements, she will be seen here at better advantage than on previous occasions, and will introduce a whole budget of songs and dances which will undoubtedly become popular.

"The Widow Jones" has a very funny story running through it. It is filled with humorous lines and laughable complications, and Miss Irwin will be surrounded by a force of clever artists who will have good parts. In the support are John C. Rice, Jacques Kruger, Joseph Sparks, George W. Barum, Richard J. Jones, Roland Carter, Ad. Lewis, Sally Cohen, Kathleen Warren, Grace Vanhook, Agnes Milton, Mabel Chandler, Mabel Power and Gertrude Mansfield.

THE CITY COUNCIL.

Important Matters Considered at the Special Meeting.

A special meeting of the City Council was held last evening, called by Mayor Boyle to take action on the proposition of the Newport Hospital trustees. The mayor's communication, read at the opening of the session, announced this fact.

The report of Mayor Boyle and President Comstock, who were appointed a special committee to confer with the hospital trustees in relation to the arrangement of a suitable place for the care of cases of delirium tremens, to which the city physician, Dr. Turner, had called the attention of the council, was read. It was stated that the hospital now contains no suitable place for the care of such cases, and to make proper provision for them would cost the hospital from $1,500 to $2,000; if the city wishes to have such a place, it is desirable that the work be done at once. The committee recommended the acceptance of a written proposition made by the hospital trustees.

This was that the city engage five free beds, at $300 a year, for a term of two years, in consideration of which the hospital will provide not less than three beds for the care of patients suffering from alcoholism, and will receive and care for all such cases when properly certified by the city physician, as well as for all patients sent by the Newport Asylum, members of the poor or board of health, the number not to be limited by the number of city beds, and no patients suffering from cholera, typhus or yellow fever or small pox to be received.

The proposition was accepted and a resolution passed in accordance therewith, authorizing the city treasurer to make such a contract with the hospital trustees.

A petition was received from Mrs. A. M. Jones, asking that the tax on the old soap house property be remitted, in view of the fact that the board of aldermen by its action in prohibiting the use of the works, cut off her income of $500 a year therefrom. Referred to the assessors of taxes.

An invitation was received from the Newport Trades Council, asking the mayor, board of aldermen and common council to set as judges on Labor day in awarding the flag offered by Manager I. B. Bergman of the Newport One Price Clothing Company to the labor organization making the best turnout in the parade. It was respectfully declined, as no one cared to act in that capacity.

The committee on city property reported on the petition to extend the Ann street pier, recommending that the work be done and repairs made to the pier, at a cost of $900, and a resolution ordering the work was passed.

The new bicycle ordinance, passed August 7, caused considerable talk in the lower branch. A petition signed by T. F. Peckham, John Rogers, Henry Bull, Jr., Leo Kaufman, the local representative of the League of American Wheelmen; and a large number of citizens, asking for the repeal of section 1 of the ordinance, was read. The petitioners objected to the lantern section, saying that it is a hardship to compel the use of lanterns, and that the cost thereof would be very great. The draft of an ordinance accompanying the petition repealed the entire first section, relating to bells and lanterns. The petition was at first referred to the committee on ordinances in the lower body. When the proposed amendment to the ordinance came up there was an abundance of talk. Some proposed to pass the amendment temporarily, in order to relieve the wheelmen until such time as the ordinance committee can report. This was opposed by Councilman Tanner, who said it was not courteous to the committee. The petition was then called in, and said that the ordinance would take effect August 20. Mr. Tanner then proposed that the ordinance committee report before that date. A vote was taken on this motion which was carried: Ayes, President Comstock, Councilmen Stevens, Tanner, Barker, Young, Vaughan and Sullivan; nays, Councilmen Hamilton, Townsend, Moffitt, Wilber and Hughes. In the board of aldermen this was further changed so as to call upon the committee to report at once. The lower branch concurred, and a recess was taken to enable the committee to meet. The ordinance reported to the council in favor of the ordinance, as it stood, and against any change, and after a good deal of roundabout talk the council accepted the report and voted to make no change.

The board of aldermen granted a license to the cold storage wharf.

The board of aldermen appointed Aldermen Hammett and O'Neill a special committee to see that City wharf is properly cleaned, complaints of its condition having been made to members of the board.

A large number of bicyclists were present to hear the discussion on the ordinance. They afterward met on Thames street and decided, informally, that it is a shame that twenty-five hundred wheelmen should be hampered by such an ordinance, just because about fifty riders have not acted as they should on the street.

Mayor Boyle stated after the meeting that already complaints were coming in regarding the nuisance caused by riders striking the groups which some have placed on their wheels. He said that regardless of the merits of the question of lights or no lights, the ordinance, no more than any other class, would be allowed to make a nuisance on the streets.

While the council was discussing the ordinance the deliberations were frequently punctuated by the clanging of those big gongs, which Mr. Tanner stated cost more than the lanterns that are objected to. As near as can be ascertained, these gongs, introduced to throw ridicule upon the ordinance, had an important effect on the council, and undoubtedly prevented the repeal, at least for a time, of the lantern clause.

DEATHS IN JULY.

The total number of deaths reported to the board of health for July is 29, which is equivalent in an estimated population of 20,000 to an annual death rate of 17.4 in each one thousand inhabitants. This basis is taken because the reports for the preceding three years have been used for comparison, although the recent census has shown the population of Newport to be considerably larger and the death rate will therefore be correspondingly smaller. The largest number of deaths from any one cause is four, from convulsions; there were three from heart disease, two each from apoplexy, diphtheria and meningitis, and one each from ascites, carcinoma of stomach, cyanosis, gastritis, gunshot wound, uterine hemorrhage, ventral hernia, marasmus, nephritis, edema of lungs, paralysis, phthisis, pneumonia, pyelitis, trismus and typhoid fever. Twelve of the decedents were under five years of age, three over five and under twenty, four each over twenty and under forty, and over forty and under sixty, and six over sixty and under eighty. The oldest was seventy-seven years, and the average age of decedents was twenty-eight years, eleven months and eight days. Contagious diseases reported during the month were scarlet fever, 2; diphtheria, 5; typhoid fever, 7.

The board of health in its monthly report gives a comparative table of the deaths in Newport for the several months for four years. The total number in 1892 was 405; in 1893, 388; in 1894, 379; the death rate being respectively 20.2, 18.4 and 18.9. The total number of deaths for the seven months of this year is 129; for the corresponding period in 1894, 127; in 1893, 205; in 1892, 243. The number of deaths in the several months this year have been the smallest in four years in January, February, April and July. The largest number of deaths in any one month this year was thirty-nine, in March.

YEPERS.

I leave the city behind me,
Shaking its dust from my feet;
Leaving its clutter and roar of trade,
I haste to the quiet street,
Where from dusk of the elm boughs arching,
As to long cathedralis dim,
Through the hush of the lingering twilight
The thrush sings a hymn.
In the town were hurry and bustle,
And squallor and sin were there,
And the fruit of the workshop of mammon,
And the weak house burden of care,
In the fields are silence and perfume,
And one might kneel and pray
In the calm and children's forest
At the tender fall of the day.
The thrush go flying homeward
To the nest in the tree-top's dim,
And the yeppers die into stillness:
The thrush has finished his hymn.
Oh! beautiful lanes, I love you
As you skirt the babbling brooks,
As you seek to the foot of the mountain,
As you find the hidden nooks,
Where the ferns in great green masses
The edge of the swamp-land show,
And the lingers still slay awake above,
And the thrushes sing their hymn.

She says she foretold the Duke of Clarence that he would not live to be married, and that the Duchess of Portland, then Miss Dallas-Yorke, would first meet her husband at a railroad station. These two prophecies came true, but hardly needed the "second sight" of Mrs. Lee to foretell them.

GOOD ROADS.

The discussion of good roads is always in order, and it must be kept up until all our highways in the city and in the country become good. In theory everybody favors the improvements proposed, but when the time for action comes some people hesitate. These are the blind people who shrink because of the expense involved. And yet it is capable of demonstration that in the long run the best roads are the cheapest, as is the case in many other directions. The experience of the state of New Jersey shows that money invested in road improvement comes back to the taxpayer very quickly and very directly. Union county has been fortunate in this matter, and as a consequence it is found that the increase in assessed valuation of property in 1895 as compared with 1894 is $1,500,000. At Summit the advance in assessed valuation was $1,000,000, or more than twenty-five per cent., and similar gains are shown in a number of other towns where the system of good roads has been extended.

These "extended" roads, which have recently been built by New Jersey authorities, seem to be about as near perfect as roadways can be made. They wear well, and are not muddy after heavy rains, and leave nothing to be desired by those who ride in carriages or on the bicycle. These figures, showing advances in assessed valuation, should move the penny-wise and pound-foolish people who, in many cases, have prevented the building of better roads on account of their cost. Such roads when once made cost but little for repairs, provided that little is applied in time. They save in wear and tear, in the cost of transportation and in many other ways.

It is said that no less than ten thousand people have been added to the population of the New Jersey towns in one year as the result of the road improvements. Such increases bring the markets home to the farmers, increase the worth of land and the value of agricultural products, all of which are to be regarded on the profit side.

NEW YORK CITY SCHOOLS.

Probably no city in the country has a more imperfect and inefficient public school system than New York. This has come about, possibly, in part from the fact that the ruling dynasty in the past has not been in full sympathy with the public schools, and partly because it could spend the public money where it would better serve the purposes of the men who, first of all, were looking for plunder and pay. According to the Tribune, the lower portion of the city has been especially destitute of school accommodations for a long time. Many schoolhouses in such quarters now in use are old factories, warehouses, theatres, churches and even tenement houses, made over to save the city dollars where thousands were spent on jobs more remunerative to the Tammany leeches. Of course such buildings are inconvenient at the best, and there can hardly be one of them that is not unsafe and unsanitary, while almost without exception they are without any surrounding grounds for the exercise of the children.

Just now the tide appears to have turned and to be running strongly in the opposite direction. New schoolhouses are to be erected in the most closely built-up sections of lower New York, and to make room for them old buildings are to be torn down and whole squares made vacant. We read that, "of the three downtown sites selected, two comprise entire blocks, and will have playground room; the third, in Livingston street, fronts on three streets, so that light and air will be abundant. But the college settlement movement, the university settlement movement, the nurses' settlement, and others have urged that the whole block should be taken in this case also, so as to afford the children a playground other than the streets. It is probable that this will be done. President Macloy of the board has the right ideas on these matters, and intends to fetch every one of the children into the schools—and there are sixty thousand children for whom at present there is no room. But while this great exigency is to be met, let us hope that some attention will be paid to the quality and the system of teaching. At present all the good teaching that is done in New York's public schools is due to individual teachers, working out their own ideas." These improvements will be costly, but no American city is in greater need of such an outlay.

MASSACHUSETTS NOTES.

The newly published census returns show that Boston had a population in 1890 of 351,245. By this time it is probably half a million, and like the circulation of the average newspaper, steadily increasing. The Herald says: "It is notable that the percentage of Boston's increase in the past decade, 25.50, is greater than that of the decade preceding 1880, when it was 23.6. But the ratio of growth in the outside metropolitan municipalities is very much greater. The only municipalities that exhibit a smaller percentage than Boston are Chelsea, Stoneham, Woburn and Watertown. Stoneham has been nearly stationary since 1880, and Nahant has lost in population, though showing a large gain since 1885. Everett continues to be the banner municipality of Greater Boston in the rate of growth, as in the national census. While in its percentage of increase was 100.1, it is now 218.21. Woburn comes next with 205.00, followed by DORCHESTER with 193.00, and Malden 170.00. The largest rate of increase in the municipalities to the northward is in the city of Lynn, with a population of 102,150, still going along with its town government with a dignity."

STARKING OUT.

Candidate Harist, the Democratic nominee for governor in Maryland, who has been supposed to be a German man, as that statesman had the credit of having about the nomination, has written a letter of acceptance in which he says:

"When the nomination was made if came as absolutely free from any pledge, promise or understanding, express or implied, on my part as ever nomination came to any man. I did not seek it in any manner whatsoever, nor can I consent to have myself spoken of or considered as the candidate of any man or set of men, or as the representative of any class, wing, faction or division of the party. I shall enter upon the discharge of the duties of governor under no commitments or obligations to any individuals whatsoever, and wholly free to do what my conscience and my judgment shall dictate as best for the public interest."

All this sounds well. Indeed, nothing in that line could read much better. But it is possible that Senator Harist knew his man too well to need any pledges or promises. It is not likely that he went through the fierce campaign in defense of his position as boss and took any chances at the vital point. Mr. Harist's platform and position is a good one, and the people of Maryland know better than any others how much faith to put in the professions made. In such a case everything depends upon the man.

The controversy over Professor Bonis, who has been thrown out of Chicago University, is coming to be very bitter. This is the way Professor Herbert Miller introduced the discarded Chicagoan at a meeting of the Society for Ethical Culture, before which he had been invited to speak. "Professor Bonis has until lately been an active member of the staff of the University of Chicago, which teaches a great many things—teaches languages, Latin, Greek, French, German, Oriental and Occidental languages. It teaches science—the facts of science—and I suppose some of the laws; it also teaches literature—in fact, it teaches pretty nearly everything but humanity. But having been founded by a buccannier of industry, it is scarcely to be expected that the ethical teachings should be much different from those of its founder."

Senator Butler of North Carolina must be a cruel man, and almost as vicious, withal, as he is cruel. He has shown his mettle by declaring that President Cleveland is a "gold bug," and threatening to call him such "from my seat on the floor of the Senate." It would have been merciful for him to have kept this to himself until the time comes for action, so that Mr. Cleveland might lose no sleep and not grow thin from worry over the impending stroke; but the North Carolinian could not wait. Having made the declaration in public during the session of the late free-trader convention in Washington, there is scarcely a possibility of keeping the news from the President, who doubtless will feel much as did old Damocles while a sword was hanging over his head, ready to fall at any moment.

Rev. Dr. L. T. Townsend, pastor of the Mount Vernon Place Methodist Episcopal Church in Baltimore, has tendered his resignation, to take effect at the end of the present conference year. He will leave the ministry entirely, and devote his time to literary work. Mr. Townsend went to Baltimore from Boston.

The Defender and Vigilant are measured, but the official figures are not made public. Thus far no one knows for a certainty which is likely to compete with the new Valkyrie. The enthusiasm for the new boat continues, but a good many people are shaking their heads.

Commissioner Roosevelt is a man of words as well as deeds. When he talks he does not stop over, like some of his associates. Among other things which he says in his latest is that the police board is a unit, as to methods and work, and that harmony prevails in its councils.

It is not believed that President Cleveland is likely to accept the invitation to attend the Knights Templar celebration. He is not on a visiting mission, or even angling for votes, at this season of the year.

The Maryland Republicans failed to put a financial plank in their platform. They should have stood so as to be counted on the right side, where doubtless most of them are.

They say ex-President Harrison's portrait looks well as it hangs in the White House. But his admirers hope for something better after the next election—the man himself.

A Chicago woman sent her daughter to a reform school, thinking it a seminary of learning. In one sense it is so, and for some pupils the best that can be had.

And so the bicycle riders will make themselves seen as well as heard. Lights and bells are in order after Monday every time after the sun goes down.

There is no doubt that the British lion's tail needs twisting occasionally, but it is rather risky for Venezuela to undertake the job.

The cooler wave came on time, but it was not very cool.

GENIUS IS CAPACITY FOR HARD WORK.

There is something very remarkable about the manner in which genius has generally manifested itself at a very early age among men who afterward distinguished themselves in a particular line. As soon as he could speak, Napoleon announced his intention of becoming a soldier; the young West's first pictorial efforts were with bits of charcoal on the walls of the paternal mansion; at three years of age Mozart was picking out the thirds on the keys of the well-worn family harpsichord; at twelve Robert Clive had formed the little lads of his native village into an organized body, and had laid the merchants of the village under contributions of half-pence and apples, with a promise of protection from other depredators; at ten Ferguson was watching the stars and estimating their distances apart by placing beads on a string; at the same age Michael Angelo was making busts in clay; when only a little older Rembrandt was sketching the portraits of his youthful acquaintances; when not quite so old Newton was making experiments in natural science with bottles and jars and apparatus; when a little younger Patti was delighting parlor audiences with her marvelous voice; when scarcely more than half so old Mrs. Siddons was making a sensation on the stage as the infant prodigy; at eleven Isaac Watts was chosen by his father for his habit of playing on every occasion at about the same age Edison was a determined investigator of physical phenomena; at ten Jeremy Taylor was placed on a table to repeat what he could remember, which was a good deal, of the minister's sermon; at eight Moore had written very passable verses; at twelve Ben Jonson had composed a tragedy; at thirteen Stephenson had perfected an invention; at twelve Sir Humphrey Davy had laid off contrivances he proposed to make; at fourteen Magliabechi spoke half a dozen languages.

Yet it will not do, from these instances, numerous and well authenticated as they are, to conclude that genius is always precocious, or that evidences of talent do not also appear at a tender age among children whose later years fail to realize the promise given by an apparently gifted childhood. Many thousands of boys, fascinated by the pomp and parade, the drums and gay colors of a passing regiment have declared their intention of adopting a military career; many of them doubtless did so, and yet few rose to eminence in the profession of arms; the last commencement season witnessed the unbounded admiration of countless manmas and women for the efforts of young Ciceros on the collegiate platform, and yet the probability is that not one of the number will ever become a Webster or a Clay; the black walls in every school in every city in this country are defaced with drawings in crayon by youthful artists, yet the chances are that in twenty years from this time the most of these young amateurs will be engaged in some vocation anything but artistic; thousands of boys have written poems and dramas before attaining maturity, and sold dry goods or driven nails for their living; many hundreds of youths make balances of themselves and enlarge life and property by experimenting with chemicals that scald badly, or burn holes in the carpet or explode and yet the number of great chemists is not appreciably increased; so the problem, what becomes of all the youthful geniuses, remains as much of a problem as ever.

The truth is that most of them are not geniuses at all, but merely inquisitive young people, who have taken a fancy to some particular line of work or investigation; but the contemporaries of the same thing of some of them, for West was thrashed for scolding his mother's walls, young Jean Seignior Bach was punished for showing too much interest in the study of the harpsichord, and Watson was kicked off a railroad car for setting it on fire with some of his chemicals. So only by his fruits is a genius to be recognized; if the early promise is fulfilled, then the boy is a genius; if not, his early studies, predilections and researches were merely boyish curiosity, of no use to himself and sometimes very troublesome to his neighbors.

The theory that genius is a growth rather than a gift is not popular, but there are so many instances of men great in a certain line, who became so only by degrees and in consequence of

SPECIAL WIRE TO THE NEWS.

HEALY'S RECENT STATEMENT.

Action of the Chairman Approved by His Party Colleagues.

LONDON, Aug. 17.—Justin McCarthy presided over a prolonged meeting of his party colleagues yesterday, at which the statement recently made at Omaha by Mr. Healy was discussed. Mr. Dillon read the correspondence upon which Mr. Healy's statement was based, and Mr. Healy moved that this be issued to the press.

Mr. Healy moved an amendment, approving Mr. McCarthy's manifesto, denouncing Mr. Healy for placing so effective and poisonous a weapon in the enemy's hands. After considerable discussion, Mr. Healy's motion was rejected without a division.

Mr. Jordan moved an amendment to Mr. Healy's motion, that, having heard Mr. Dillon's statement and the documents read by him, the meeting expressed approval of the action of the chairman of the committee in connection with the London and Tyne seats in parliament, and this action was carried by a vote of 43 to 29.

PAPER DUPLICATED AND WORTHLESS.

Officials of Lincoln, Neb., Charged with Forging City Warrants.

LINCOLN, Neb., Aug. 17.—City Clerk J. S. Phillips and Water Commissioner George Hawkins were arrested here yesterday, on a warrant sworn out by Bank President W. P. Norcross, charging them with forging city warrants and obtaining money under false pretences. Mr. Norcross had bought warrants the day before, the said paid aggregating $1,000, only to find that some of the paper was duplicated and worthless. The arrest caused a sensation in the city, as both are prominent men and have heretofore stood high. Efforts were made to secure bonds, but they were unsuccessful.

COPYRIGHT IN CANADA.

Americans Have Little Ground to Fear Its Passage.

LONDON, Aug. 17.—R. B. Marston, the publisher, has written a letter in which he contends that it is virtually impossible for Canadian printers to sell in the United States cheap reprints of American copyrighted works. Mr. Marston is entirely opposed to the proposed Canadian copyright law, but fails to see that the Americans have any real ground to fear it, even if it should pass, which is quite improbable. Americans, Mr. Marston says, are making a bug-bear of the copyright law in order to cover their own most improper claims upon Canada.

SAILORS ILL TREATED.

Officers of North German Lloyds Steamers Charged with Brutality.

LONDON, Aug. 17.—The Times prints a despatch from Berlin, saying that it is stated that grave cases of ill treatment on board North German Lloyds steamer Kaiser Wilhelm II have come to light. Two sailors are said to have jumped overboard in despair and been drowned, and another is reported to have died from the effects of brutal treatment on the part of engineers. Similar charges against some of the North German Lloyds officers have been made previously.

Steamer City of Macon Disables a Coal Schooner.

PHILADELPHIA, Aug. 17.—While coming up the river last evening steamer City of Macon collided with schooner William Jones, with six hundred tons of coal on board, and bound for Bristol, R. I. The schooner's bows were stove in, and to prevent her sinking she was beached, the crew being taken off by a passing tug. The bow of the steamer was stove, a misunderstanding of signals led to the collision.

British Commoners Seeking an International Monetary Conference.

LONDON, Aug. 17.—A meeting of members of the House of Commons interested in the currency question, including the Marquis of Lorne and Sir William Henry Houldsworth, was held yesterday, and it was resolved to appoint a parliamentary committee to promote the holding of an international monetary conference, in accordance with the motion introduced by Robert L. Everett in the last House of Commons, urging the government to co-operate with the other powers in the calling of such a conference.

GOOD QUALITIES COMBINED.

Simplicity and Utility the Features of This Design—Costs $3,750.

FOLLOWING HIS FATHER.

A remarkable chain of coincidences, and one of national interest, is that which promises to perpetuate the honored name of Garfield in Ohio politics. Exactly fourteen years from the day when Garfield's cowardly bullet cut short the career of President James A. Garfield in the fullness of his fame, his son, James R. Garfield, was nominated for the state senate of Ohio from a Cleveland district. The coincidence is heightened by the fact that the elder Garfield began his political career by being elected to the same office, and from the same district, at the same age of twenty-eight years, in the year 1869. Although sentiment may have had something to do in suggesting the nomination, young Garfield has earned the honor on his merits, and possesses in a marked degree the characteristics which distinguished his father and contributed to the success and brilliancy of his remarkable political career. The younger Garfield is a practicing lawyer, which his father was not until after he was elected to the state senate, and has much of his father's literary tastes and oratorical talent. The district is safely Republican, and young Garfield's election, therefore, assured. If the coincidence is carried out he will be sent to Congress in 1898 and be elected President in 1910.—[Mail and Express.]

MOONSHINE!

The ridiculous statement that any other whiskey, no matter what the make, equals that splendid

CARRICK CLUB WHISKEY

In any one particular, is like much of the other whiskeys themselves—

ALL MOONSHINE.

Why, the celebrated CARRICK CLUB WHISKEY is the only whiskey in this earth that is all pure liquor. It is distilled from the choicest selected grain only, and then bottled until age ripens and mellows it into that smooth, quickening, grand

CARRICK CLUB.

Once used—no other ever satisfies.

Carrick Club Whiskey is for sale everywhere, grocers, druggists, cafes, etc. Ask for it and don't be fooled.

BAY STATE'S GROWTH.

Nearly All Her Cities Show Gains in Population.

BOSTON, Aug. 17.—A report of the first count showing the population of the commonwealth of Massachusetts on May 1 of the present year, from the fifth decennial census of the state, was issued yesterday afternoon.

The report shows that the percentage of increase in the last 10 years over that of the 10 years ending in 1885 is, for the state, 28.48 per cent, and for the city of Boston, 26.53 per cent.

Mr. Wallin, in his introduction of the figures, says: "It is, perhaps, unfortunate that the present enumeration follows a period of extreme business depression. This undoubtedly affects the returns from the textile and boot and shoe cities and towns which, in many instances, account for the failure to reach a population figure as high as that set by sanguine local estimates, and diminishes the rate of increase during the last five years of the decennial period as compared with that shown between 1885 and 1890. Estimates of population made previous to enumeration are generally too high. A census taken in October would be more favorable to some extent than a census taken in May, as required by the constitution."

The figures for the city of Boston show a present population of 404,905, which, compared with 1885, when the population was 330,930, indicate an increase of 108,812.

What the figures show.

Figures for the state and counties are shown by the recapitulation to be as follows:

Waltham	11,750	11,750
Woburn	16,389	16,389
Worcester	98,989	98,989

Among the towns, the most remarkable increases shown are those of Winthrop, where the population in 1885 was 1870, and is now 4197, an increase of about 300 per cent; Beverly, where the figures in 1885 were 3637, are now 7437, an increase of 104.48 per cent; Hull, whose population of 451 has grown to 1041, nearly 151 per cent; Amesbury, where the population of 1493 in 1885 has increased to 2984, a growth of 126.75 per cent.

Among the cities, Everett's increase of nearly 210 per cent is proportionally the greatest, and Newburyport's growth is proportionally the least, being only 6.11 per cent.

All these figures of the first count are subject to modification later, but the principal changes anticipated are those for Fall River and Gloucester, where the absence of many residents at sea makes it probable that a slight change in the present figures may be necessary.

Much Interest Manifested.

OLD ORCHARD, Me., Aug. 17.—At the Salvation Army camp meeting yesterday the subject of the afternoon meeting was "A Practical Life." "The Judgment Day" was discussed at a meeting last evening. The meetings this year have been more interesting than ever before, and the attendance of Salvationists is much larger.

A Test Case.

PROVIDENCE, Aug. 17.—A suit to recover $20,000 has been brought by Wing & Evans of New York against John H. Slater of this city. Slater was a stockholder in the defunct American Wool Paper company. If this suit is successful, many other creditors will bring suit against others of the stockholders.

Unfortunate Youngsters.

ACRONA, Ill., Aug. 17.—A passenger train ran through an open switch at the Bleachery last evening and collided with some freight cars on a siding. The passengers were thrown about the cars with great force, but none received serious injury. Ten boys were standing on one of the freight cars. One was killed and five badly hurt. The car was loaded with sulphuric acid, which, spilling, burned all.

Currency Reform.

LONDON, Aug. 17.—Members of parliament yesterday formed a parliamentary committee, its members to promote an international conference for the purpose of considering what measures can be taken to remove or mitigate the evils resulting from the fluctuations growing out of the divergence in the relative value of gold and silver.

Woman Suspected of Murder.

ARREVILLE, Ga., Aug. 17.—Doc Wade, an aged and industrious man, was murdered at the house of Sam Wallace yesterday. Mrs. Sam Wallace is strongly suspected of the crime. Wade was a Confederate pensioner, and it is thought he was murdered for his pension money, having recently received it.

Captain Became Crazy.

NEW YORK, Aug. 17.—Schooner Harry, from Gervill, N. S. Aug. 4 to this port, arrived yesterday. Captain Milton became insane on the voyage and First Mate Lockhart brought the ship to port. As the Harry passed through Hell Gate yesterday Captain Milton died in his cabin.

Active Anarchists.

ACRONA, Italy, Aug. 17.—While the police were arresting an anarchist named Bernadelli, who was distributing a manifesto eulogizing Camillo Santo, the murderer of the late President Carnot, a bomb was exploded in front of the French consulate, doing much damage.

Another Strike Ended.

NEW YORK, Aug. 17.—Leopold Schwartz, leader of the Children's Jacket Makers' union, formally declared last night that the strike was over, and that the contractors had acceded to the terms demanded by the strikers and had furnished the required bonds.

Train Hands Hurt.

ST. LOUIS, Aug. 17.—The engine and baggage car of a passenger train on the Cotton Belt railway were derailed at Stamps Station, Ark. The train ran through an open switch. No passengers were hurt, but three train hands were injured.

They Want Croker.

NEW YORK, Aug. 17.—The statement is printed here that ex-Police Commissioner James J. Martin has assumed the leadership of Tammany Hall, and that the friends of Richard Croker have sent him telegrams urging his immediate return.

A Yellow Fever Victim.

NEW YORK, Aug. 17.—Burt E. Hyde, who was transferred from Hoffman to Swinburne Island on Tuesday last, suffering from yellow fever, died yesterday afternoon.

Denver Building Collapses.

DENVER, Aug. 17.—The two-story brick building, known as the O'Donnell block, collapsed yesterday without warning, and three persons were injured. The damage amounts to about $10,000.

Echo of Recent Riots.

SPRING VALLEY, Ill., Aug. 17.—Sheriff Clarke yesterday arrested over 80 of the men who ran the negroes out of the village. No trouble was encountered.

THE TENNIS PLAYERS.

Probable Outcome of the Tournament at the Casino Next Week.

The list of entries for the national lawn tennis tournament, which opens at the Casino Tuesday morning, is notable in several respects. In the first place, there is the largest number ever entered, exceeding by three the famous record of 1893. In the second place, of the eighty-two entries, thirty-eight, or nearly one half, were not in last year's tournament, although a few of these have been in previous contests. In the third place, there is a notable absence of the old-time players, the names of Sears, Dwight, Clark, Stearns, E. L. Hall, V. G. Hall, Charles A. Chase, Fielding, Campbell, Huntington and Clarence Hobart being noticeable for their absence. Most of these have not been in the recent tournaments, but Hobart has played and been a prominent factor for many years in the national contests until this season. There are, however, in the list enough good players to assure excellent play, and the drawings were such that well contested matches will be had throughout the tournament. Hovey, Chase, Larned, Foote, Stevens, Howland, Talmage, Budge, J. A. Ryerson, Noel, Avery, Reed, Fischer, Miller, Davidson, Ware, Jones, Paret, Post, Williston, Seabury, Herick, Sands, Taylor and Hinckley are entered, and the struggle among them will develop the best of tennis. Ryerson, Noel and Seabury represent the West, and are expected to make an excellent showing, especially Noel, who is regarded as a formidable opponent for the best of the Eastern cracks. In view of the fact that no one player has won successively during the early summer, and each has fallen a victim to the others at various times, and that Wrenn, the champion, has been beaten by Larned, Chase, Foote and Stevens, and that Howland has beaten several of these players, there is an uncertainty about the result which will make the contests of continual interest.

In the preliminary round are Deane, Miller, Talmage, Fischer, Davidson, Herick, Lee, Taylor, Chase, Barnes, Terry, Cochran, Evans, Wrenn, Miller, Paret and Howland, any of whom are likely to win places in the first round, although Talmage may fall a victim to Seabury, who is practically an unknown player in the East, but who has an excellent reputation in the West. With this prediction carried out, the first quarter section of the first round will contain Hovey, Hinckley, H. Stevens, DeGarmendia, Sandland, A. Hobart. The second section will contain Jones, Noel, Miller, Avery, Talmage, Davidson and Chase; the third section will include Barnes, Howland, Ryerson, Reed and Budge, and the fourth Larned, Ware, Williston and Foote.

In the first round Hinckley should defeat Bradley, Wrenn and Hatch are unknown quantities. Stevens will probably win from Smith, A. Taylor from W. Maymiller, DeGarmendia from Griffith, Hovey from Jennings, Sands from Bartow, J. F. Hobart from Cronin-Sheffield, Stille from Walz and Jones from Tete, Noel may have difficulty in defeating Avery, who is a former Canadian champion; Miller will probably defeat Chase. Talmage should win from Fischer; Davidson from Herick or Wrenn; Lee from Taylor. Chase from W. A. Jones, Cochran from Hayes, Terry from Herick, Miller from Lock, Howland from Paret, Herick from Butler, Ryerson from Cochran, Reed from Stillman, Budge from Neely, Thompson from Robinson, Larned from Post, Henshaw from Cleveland, Brown from McEnroe, Ware from Herick, Williston from Bond, Foote from G. L. Wrenn, Jr., and Gould and Mason are too little known to assign even a guess as to the winner. E. H. Hovey, to reach the semi-finals, must defeat W. L. Jennings, B. S. DeGarmendia, R. C. Sands and Richard Stevens. Chase is the leading light in the second section, and must defeat C. E. Sands, J. A. Hovey, Talmage and Noel. His most difficult match will be with Noel, who is believed to be better in singles than last year. Chase, however, is likely to reach the semi-finals and meet Hovey, and the result would be in doubt if Chase plays the game of which he is capable. Hovey, on the other hand, may lose to Richard Stevens, who has beaten Wrenn this year, but was defeated yesterday at the Pier by J. P. Paret, who is not rated as a first-class player. Hovey, however, is generally regarded as likely to win all his matches, to the hands, and probably to again the runner-up. In the first section of the second round Hovey is likely to be the winner to the semi-finals. To accomplish this he must defeat Brooks, Paret, Evans, Wrenn, Cochran and other Ryerson, Budge or Reed. His chances against these players are excellent. In the second section of this half the two players most likely to win are Larned and Foote, and neither has difficult work before they reach each other. Larned must defeat Post, Thompson and Henshaw, and Foote must win from G. L. Wrenn, Jr., Gould and other Ware or Williston. The match between Larned and Foote for a place in the semi-finals will be an interesting one, with the chances favoring Larned. This brings Hovey and Chase and Larned and Foote into the semi-finals. The chances regarding the first pair have been discussed, and Larned ought to defeat Foote, although the latter has improved very much this summer. The hands will probably be between Hovey and Larned, and Hovey ought to win, but he is a very uncertain factor in a tight place, and may again disappoint his friends. Although Wrenn has not been playing so well this summer, he is generally looked upon as most likely to retain the championship against any of the players in the tournament.
